A groundbreaking ceremony, scheduled for 3 p.m. this afternoon, will mark the beginning of a three-year elementary school construction project including a two-story elementary school and gymnasium, the relocation of the JAMS facility, a new soccer field, and other site work.

The construction has prompted a town hall meeting to take place early next week to inform parents, base residents, and community members of the implications the construction will cause in the upcoming years.

The construction will affect students,

FMD decon solution change

JO2 Ricky Allen
Rota Coastline

The Spanish Office of Defense Cooperation has granted approval to the United States to change the decontamination solution used against the foot and mouth disease.

The Navy has been using the virkon chemical to combat the spread of FMD since March 16. However, Virkon will now be changed to a mixture of sodium carbonate and sodium silicate.

"The new solution we are using is environmentally safe, friendly to aircraft, and doesn't cause corrosion," said Maj. Kimberly Black, squadron maintenance officer, 725th Air Mobility Squadron, Rota.

The problem with Virkon is that when used, it impregnates the metal surface, causing corrosion, Black said.

The use of the Virkon chemical solution caused worry throughout the U.S. Armed forces because of not only its corrosive impact, but also where it's used. Virkon has been used on the landing gear of aircraft, cargo, and inner areas of airplanes. Virkon solution impregnates the metal surface,

This year Seabees will save the city governments of Rota, Chipiona, San Lucar, and El Puerto de Santa Maria as much as $100,000, said Capt. Thomas Bongiovi, USAF, NMCB -40 alpha company commander. The eight-week-long project also allows the Seabees to gain valuable earth-moving training on a massive scale, while providing a lasting service.

Rota wins CNO Environmental Quality Award

JOC Jon McMillan
Rota Coastline

For the third year in a row, Naval Station Rota's environmental program has been rated as one of the best in the Navy. The base's environmental division was awarded the CNO's Environmental Quality Award for overall excellence in managing the base's program.

"It's a testament to the base's sustained commitment and concern for the environment," said Tim Riordan, director of the environmental division at Rota's Public Works department.

Riordan said the base's program hasn't changed much in the past three years. "What's special about the program is its breadth. We have a comprehensive and broad-reaching program," he said. "There are really no weak links in our program."

The division administered more than $6.6 million in programs aimed at preventing pollution, protecting the environment, and conserving natural and cultural resources. Most of those dollars went to programs that most people don't see

THIS WEEK

BATTLE OF THE COMMANDS, 11
A.M., MAY 18,
LIBERTY PARK

The Burger King is still coming

CAPTAIN'S CORNER

Capt. R. Noble,
COMNAVACT, Spain

Alright, it's about time to get this Captain's Corner and Command Master Chief's Corner back onto the correct cycle. We have experienced a few "coordination" hiccups over the past weeks, but I think we have it squared away this time. I haven't chatted with you via the Captain's Corner in almost a month... I'm sorry! So, let's get into a few topics that I hope you will find interesting, educational and worthwhile. I have a quite a medley of things I'd like to address this week.

Item 1- For those of you who don't know, we have a new elementary school coming. In fact, there's a ground-breaking ceremony scheduled to take place today at 1500. This new school is a good thing for the community, but in order to get it we have to tolerate some inconveniences. Ideally, we would build the new school at a different location than the current school; that would definitely reduce the inconvenience. But when they originally built the school they selected a rather great location, right in the middle of housing. We also want the new school in the middle of housing. What that means is, for a couple of years we will need to tolerate the inconvenience of building a new school, while conducting school, all in the same space. That's going to be a challenge, but we have devised a plan that will minimize the impact on the community. It's a good plan. If you want to see and hear about the new school plan, and get a better idea about how it might affect you, come on over to the school on Monday night, May 21 at 6 p.m.. You can listen to the presentation and ask questions. (see pages 6 & 7 for more)

Item 2- Speaking of school, you may recall that last week was Teacher Appreciation Week. I'd be remiss if I didn't mention how much I appreciate teachers. And if you have kids that attend school, anywhere, I hope that you told your kid's teacher how much you appreciate the time, sweat, dedication and patience that they devote to educating your little angel. It's a very tough job that doesn't pay well (sounds like the Armed Forces doesn't it?), but I'm guessing that most teachers do it because they know how important it is. Helping raise the next generation of productive citizens is not an easy task. To all of you teachers out there I say...

THANK YOU!

Item 3- Energy conservation. I know, you don't want to hear about this again! So, my pitch to you on this topic will be very brief. It's really this simple, the money we save due to energy conservation goes right back into the base checkbook and is available for me to spend on QoL for all of us. What better reason do you need to pay attention to your energy consumption habits. Remember to turn off lights that aren't needed, and turn off the A/C unless absolutely required; crack open windows and doors this summer to create cross drafts because air movement alone provides a significant cooling effect.

Item 4- Poor sportsmanship, bad language, tailgating, speeding... these are a few of the rude and/or unsafe behaviors that I occasionally get to observe during my travels around the base. Unfortunately, I'm guilty of some of these unsavory acts myself! My point is, we are a pretty decent bunch here, and this behavior is not a true representation of what we are. Please take a look at how you have been behaving recently, and if you determine that you are guilty of some uncomplimentary behavior in the vicinity of your fellow man, please make an adjustment; you are better than that.

Item 5- The Burger King is still coming, although I am now anticipating chomping down on a double-cheese Whopper, made fresh here on the base, toward the end of the summer. I don't want to wait any longer than you do, but we are experiencing a little delay. Hang in there, the Whoppers are coming. The food court at Reflections is not scheduled to be completed until the winter/spring of next year. This is a delay of several months, but if we have a BK in town it takes some of the sting out of the food court delay.

Item 6- I'm still looking for a volunteer to be the Naval Station Ombudsman. Although we have been managing without a NAVSTA Ombudsman since the end of January, it's not a job that should sit vacant for an extended period. Those families assigned to NAVSTA deserve a representative who has their finger on the pulse and is interested in helping folks find answers to their questions or assistance with a problem. I need one of you spouses out there to come and join my morale and welfare team as the NAVSTA Ombudsman... who's up for it?

Power pole replacement

Power poles are finally being replaced throughout the base after 40 years of service. The project will last 18 months and will offer an upgraded electrical service.

The new power poles will primarily be used to distribute a power line that carries 12, 470 volts, 60 hertz.

All of the telephone poles in the industrial area will be replaced, from the main power plant throughout the barracks, Hospital, NSGA, Navy Exchange and Commissary facilities. Poles located near the airfield and public works areas will also be replaced.

"The system is being upgraded to support a potential larger load in the future," said Robert Chenevey, utilities director, Public Works Department, Rota.

The project has resulted in speed bumps installed in the roads located around the telephone pole replacement sites. Chenevey said these speed bumps are not the regular speed bumps used to slow traffic.

The speed bumps are temporary cables that provide temporary service to the various facilities being served. "The temporary service allows the contractor to demolish the old system, and build the new system with minimal interruption to the facilities," said Chenevey.

The project started November of last year and will last 18 months.

Base radio station conducts survey

An audience survey to help determine what kind of programming listeners prefer on Hot FM 102.5 will be distributed to commands this week for further distribution to service members and their families.

"Audience surveys are one key way to help us better understand the likes and dislikes of our listeners," said JOCs Neil Guillebeau, officer-in-charge, Naval Media Center. "It is especially challenging with one radio station to please the host of listeners here who have a variety of preferences, so data from our customers plays a big part in helping to determine what gets played on the radio."

While the surveys are slated for distribution to only a percentage of each command's military and family members, anyone who wants to participate can. If you do not receive a survey and want to participate, call the Naval Media Center at 2121 or visit Building 206 (near the piers) 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, to complete one.

"It is important that everyone here has an opportunity to complete a survey and to express their views about radio programming," said Guillebeau. "While the radio station is chartered to play music reflective of what listeners hear Stateside, our desire it to play the kinds of music that people in our community want to hear."

The surveys are short and should take most people a couple of minutes to finish. Please complete your survey and return it to your command representatives or contact the NMC for a survey no later than May 29.

First Lady announces increase in Troops to Teachers funding

First lady Laura Bush announced May 8 that her husband has requested a tenfold increase in funding — from $3 million to $30 million — for the Troops to Teachers program next year.

"I hope that sends a message about how important it is to encourage people to choose teaching, and particularly how important it is to encourage retiring military," Bush said in an American Forces Information Service interview during a visit to Fort Jackson, S.C.

"Men and women of the United States military, you answered the call to serve your country in the finest armed services in the world," Bush said to the several hundred Fort Jackson soldiers in attendance. "So as you prepare to leave the military, we ask you to turn your attention to the homefront, to Uncle Sam's classrooms, where we need your service as teachers."

The Troops to Teachers program is run by the Defense Activity for Non-Traditional Education Support. The current program provides referral assistance and placement services to military personnel interested in becoming teachers after their military service. Don't Miss Out on "Any Day" 2001

"All Hands" magazine has upped the ante this year. You now have a whole month to grab a camera and get that perfect shot for "All Hands" magazine's "Any Day in the Navy" issue. (So, what's your excuse?)

The photo shoot is designed to capture quality photos of Sailors, Marines, Department of the Navy civilian employees, Naval Reservists and family members at work and at play.

The best photos highlight daily tasks that contribute to mission accomplishment and quality of life, and show the richness of life in today's Navy. But some of the worst ones show people far in the distance, backs of heads, or members doing nothing in particular. So, get close, try to get at least part of a face, and look for action. Please keep in mind that photos should illustrate how Sailors and Marines "work, live and fight."

To be considered, photos must be received at "All Hands" by June 15, 2001. Photos will not be returned.

For more information on submission requirements, please consult NAVADMIN 110/01 or the May 2001 issue of "All Hands" magazine, pages 14 and 15.

Submissions should be mailed to: "All Hands" magazine — Attn: Photo Editor, Naval Media Center, 2713 Mitscher Rd. SW, Anacostia Annex, DC, 20373-5819. Be sure to mark all packages: "Any Day submissions." Digital images can be sent as .jpg files to the Chief of Information's Navy Visual News Service at <mailto:navynewsphoto@hq.navy.mil>. The subject line for all such submissions should read: "Any Day submissions."

Questions regarding the Any Day in the Navy photo shoot should be directed to the "All Hands" managing editor, JOCs(AW) Dave Desilets. Send e-mail to mailto:desilets@mediacen.navy.mil, or call DSN 288-2637, or (202) 433-2637.

-GOOD WORD FOR THE WEEK-

Happiness is not an absence of problems; but the ability to deal with them.

Alone Time Together

Well, what did you think of Feria? I said, "WHAT DID YOU THINK OF FERIA?"

What do you mean the music wasn't loud enough? Even though the music was a bit loud for me, I used Feria to spend time with each of my children separately. I see my children everyday, however I rarely take them out individually-just my daughter and me or just my son and me. If I take one to the movies, I also take the other. If I jump on the trampoline with one, the other will soon follow. I'm not complaining. I enjoy jumping on the trampoline with both my kids. But as my daughter and I were leaving Feria, I realized how seldom I hang out with just her-spending alone time together. Deut 6:5-7 says, "Love the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your strength. These commandments that I give you today are to be upon your hearts. Impress them on your children. Talk about them when you sit at home and when you walk along the road, when you lie down and when you get up." When I read this Scripture, I realize time alone with each child becomes vital. How can I teach them if I am not with them? Capturing moments with each of my children allows me to impress God's truth on their hearts one at a time. Are there lessons you wish to teach your children? Try alone-time together.

Indiana Bill for kids

Are you looking for a new fun place to take your kids? Indiana Bill is a play place for children ages 2 to 12. It is located in the Urbisur Commercial Area of Chiclana, almost directly across from McDonald's. It is open Monday through Thursday from 5 to 9 p.m.; weekends and Spanish holidays from 5 to 9:30 p.m. They open mornings for groups that have previously scheduled a visit. For groups of 25 children, the charge is 500 pesetas for two hours; for groups of 15 the charge is 1,000 pesetas. Here kids can have the thrill of going down their giant slide "Free Fall" (there is a minimum age/height requirement). There are monitors who supervise the children while they play and there is a cafeteria where adults can wait and watch if they wish to do so. They have an upstairs room for celebrating birthdays or other occasions and there are a couple of menus to choose from. The menu price includes unlimited playtime for the guests. A minimum of ten children is required for a party. Also, they sell lots of really cute "Indiana Bill" things such as T-shirts, sweat shirts, beach towels, caps, back packs etc. Kids need to wear socks while in the play area. Sound like it could be a fun activity for after school or Memorial Day? If you are interested in scheduling a visit, call Mari Carmen at 956-538383.

Thinking about Memorial Day Weekend? Another suggestion is Hacienda Buena Suerte, the Quarter Horse Ranch located near Villamartin that I first wrote about on April 5. They offer one day trail rides of three and six hours, three day trail rides with outdoor camp, flamenco shows with barbeque, horse show with open buffet and of course, there are very nice rooms where you can stay overnight and enjoy the country and riding. They also have a swimming pool. If you are interested in more information or in scheduling an activity, give them a call at 956-231286. They speak English.

Pancho Villa's Baja California Mexican Restaurant in Vistahermosa, opens again after a short vacation next Monday, May 21.

Now that nice weather is here, it's a good time to stop by Casa Paco in downtown Puerto for some of their great fried fish and seafood...especially their "pavias" (hake). They are located right on the Ribera del Marisco across from the park.

Last week Ana Posada asked me to pass along how much she likes the Japanese Grill House in Rota. She thinks the buffet is very good and a very good deal for the price, but she said she really likes the lunch boxes. If you haven't tried them yet, do so! Remember they will home deliver orders of five or more. The phone is 956-813273.

Next time you visit someplace, let me know what you thought. Let's hear from you! Share with others information about your favorite spots and shops. Contact me by e-mail at coastpub@retemail.es, by fax at 956-542997 or by phone at 956-542997 or 607-564132.

Juniors and Seniors celebrate 2001 High School Prom

Eric Flagg
DGF High School

DGF High School celebrated its 2001 Prom at Puerto Saturday, specifically at the club "El Buzo".

The Prom was held from 7 p.m. to midnight at the club where students and chaperones alike ate and danced all night. Tickets were $35 per person and more than 70 people attended.

The entrance to "El Buzo" was littered with nice cars, with exception of Joel Ridings, and beautiful women in dresses deemed suitable for the Oscars. The men were equally well dressed, with an interesting anecdote of one person with a $400 suit attending prom.

During their wait, students were able to take their Prom pictures with a beach theme. As the students began entering the club, they found their respective tables and started taking their respective places.

The décor was really nice; tables ornamented with geometric fruit designs as well as food to suit everyone's liking. People chatted about how great each other looked and what a nice place this club was.

During the dinner, Sangria was served. The interesting thing about this was that the Sangria was non-alcoholic. Who's ever heard of non-alcoholic tinto? But rest assured, the attendants were under supervision with nearly 20 adults.

After dinner, the attendees shuffled into the large lawn with beautiful views of the Bahía de Cádiz. By this time, the sun was setting which made for a very romantic evening for the couples, to the resentment of the solo-attendees. Pictures of friends and couples were taken so everyone could remember this wonderful night.

Once the feeling was right the attendees again shuffled through the yard and ended up in the "Glass Room" for lack of a better word. The building was composed of all windows so one had a view of everything around them.

The crowning of the court was next. This year's Prom King and Queen were Robert Basnight and Monique McFarlane. The court then danced a slow song with their respective court partners. After this everyone joined in the dance party. The DJ's played their music, people danced, while others tried to dance... myself included. Special mentions go out to Anthony Rodriguez ("The Worm"), Taurean Lynch.

After everyone moving their skeleton a little and digestion was done, it was time to cut the cake. This cake pretty large and was delicious, although, out of 200 possible slices to be cut, only eight to 10 were cut. A Bravo Zulu (whatever that is) goes out to the DGF High School Junior Class as well as to Mrs. Rodriguez for their excellent job.

A year of hard work had really paid off at this year's prom. Everyone went with a smile on their faces and made great memories, which for some, will be some of the last ones they'll live in high school.

Capileira in La Alpujarra

Photos and story PH1 (AW) Ron Heppner

The day after my short career as a white water kayaker, about half of our sore and stiff group opted to hop in a van and take a ride in the mountains, rather than experience the thrill of another day on the river.

The views are absolutely awesome as you wind your way through the snow-capped mountains of Alpujarra. We traveled with the windows open for awhile. But before long the cool refreshing mountain air got a little too cool for our Andalusia-based temperments. It took about an hour or so to make our way up to the mountain village of Capileira.

One thing I noticed about the town is that despite the fact that the Moors were defeated several hundred years ago, there is still a Moroccan flavor there. As you stroll through the narrow alleys you can hear Arabic being spoken and Moroccan music is played in a lot of the shops. Most of the shops have a mish-mash of local ceramic crafts, Moroccan rugs and brassware, and the typical stuff you'll find in any souvenir shop like religious keychains and rocks with the name of the town painted on them.

I didn't really do any shopping but others in the group were happy with the prices they paid.

Vista

The streets of Capileira are a tight squeeze for automobile traffic.

I think there must be a route that the tourist buses follow through the Alpujarra region. Because every so often a bus would pull into town discharge tourists and after half an hour or so they'd all pile back onto the bus.

There were a lot of pensions and small hostels but there weren't any hotels. The buildings in the town were really tightly packed together and I don't think a hotel of any size would fit.

After hobbling back to the van we headed back to camp. On the way we picked up a couple of Hungarian medical students who were hitchhiking. They were down for the weekend from Granada in search of a monastery. Apparently, the monastery they were looking for was where the Dalai Lama's reincarnate (a Spanish boy), was taken for questioning to see if he was next in line as Dalai Lama. They never found the monastery because nobody could really give them concrete directions.

Although I didn't spend much time in Capileira, it is one of those places "I have to go back" list.

This rack of potted flowers adds a pleasant touch to this whitewashed building.

In April, snow still looms over the sleepy village.

Asian-Pacific American Heritage Month in Rota

Basil Biever

An Asian-Pacific American Heritage (APAH) month luncheon and festival will be held next week to recognize Asian-Pacific Americans and their contributions to the United States.

The Gateway Galley will host a luncheon on May 23, at 11:30 a.m. The Fil-Am Levante Club will perform an ethnic dance called "tinikling," where dancers move to the beat and rhythm of bamboo poles. This serves as a preview of the upcoming event on May 25, at 7 p.m., called "Barrio Fiesta," a festivity showcasing traditional Filipino dances, food, and ethnic costumes. The fiesta will be held at the Rota Feria Grounds, in Club Funcionales.

Another event that coincides with APAH month is the DoD show, Aloha Polynesia, which will be held in Reflections on May 23, at 7 p.m. The show is free, and features hula dancing and fire throwing batons.

Asian-Pacific American is a political name given to ethnic groups from Japan, Korea, China, Philippines, Indonesia, and the Pacific Islands, to name several of nearly thirty different countries that make up this group.

This annual celebration began as Asian Pacific Heritage Week, on May 4, 1979. The law was originally introduced by Frank Horton (R-NY) and Norman Mineta (D-CA). May was chosen due to milestones in Asian-Pacific American History during this month: the first Japanese immigrants arrived on May 17, 1843; and the contributions of Chinese laborers on the completion of the transcontinental railroad, marked by Golden Spike Day on May 10, 1869.

APAH was born out of the need to have Asian Americans recognized for their contributions in building the United States of America. The need to have Asian American experiences brought to the forefront was started by a Chinese-American woman named Jeanie Jew, whose grandfather helped build the transcontinental railroad and was killed in his attempt to end atrocities against Chinese laborers.

On October 23, 1992, President George Bush signed legislation into law permanently designating May as Asian-Pacific Heritage month.

AFN customers need to upgrade

AFNE Public Affairs

AFN decoder customers need to perform a free decoder software upgrade between 14 May and 7 August 2001. As AFN continues to expand and improve satellite services, this software download is necessary for the early August expansion of AFN services with the creation of AFN News and AFN Sports television services.

By using the remote control, check the decoder's internal settings before beginning the download process. The settings may be incorrect if customers are viewing other-than-AFN satellite channels.

Downloading the software will take approximately 15 minutes. Viewers will not be able to use the decoder during software upgrade while in the "Off" mode.

By following these easy directions, AFN decoder customers can perform the software download in 10 to 15 minutes and resume watching their favorite programs.

AFN DECODER SOFTWARE DOWNLOAD PROCEDURES

This message applies to all customers who receive the AFN signals via the Scientific Atlanta Power-Vu model 9234 decoder.

Carefully follow this software download procedure:

1. From the MAIN MENU, move the cursor up to RECEIVER STATUS and push "select." This will access the RECEIVER STATUS menu.

2. From the RECEIVER STATUS menu, cursor up to USER SETUP and push "select." This will access the USER SETUP menu.

3. From the USER SETUP menu, cursor up to NETWORK PRESETS and push "select." This will access the NETWORK PRESETS menu.

4. Check the USE NIT block on this menu page. It should indicate YES. If it reads NO, cursor up to the USE NIT block and press the "select" button to change it to YES.

5. Move the cursor to "exit" and push "select." You will be prompted to save the settings: a box will appear and you will be asked to push 1 for "yes", 2 for "no" or 3 to "cancel". Press 1. Move the cursor to "exit" and press "select". Repeat this step as prompted as you exit through all the menus.

NOTE: Make sure you put the decoder in this (Use NIT "Yes") mode prior to performing the procedure.

6. With the decoder still locked to the incoming signal, tune any AFN channel.

7. After the decoder locks on a channel, simply press the ON/STANDBY button on the front of the decoder or press Power from the remote control. The decoder will determine if a software upgrade is needed.

a. If the decoder does not need new software, it simply remains in the "Off" mode when the ON/STANDBY button is pressed. Pressing the ON/STANDBY button again will turn the decoder back on without any further disruption in service. (Recently purchased or rented decoders may not need the download.)

b. If the decoder determines a software upgrade is needed, the download process will begin automatically. The screen will go black and lines of data will appear on your television screen. This procedure will take up to 15 minutes for each decoder requiring a download. Do not interrupt this downloading process. 8. Once the download is completed, the decoder will turn back "ON" to the channel previously selected.

While this is a simple process to perform, doing it incorrectly could disable the decoder. The decoder would then have to be sent back to the manufacturer for repair at owner's expense.

Customers can contact the AFN Europe Network Operations Center at Germany commercial 49- (0) 69-15688444, DSN 329-4444 or AFRTS Broadcast Center staff, 24-hours a day, seven days a week at USA commercial (909) 413-2339 or DSN 348-1339 for help with the download process. Information is also available at the AFN Europe website at www.afneurope.army.mil. Email your questions, concerns and comments to: afn@afn.frankfurt.army.mil or ordoe@afn.frankfurt.army.mil

Captain Noble becomes equipment operator for a day

JO1 Greg Frazho
NMCB 40 Public Affairs

It's been a yearly tradition for Seabees deployed to Rota to repair the local beaches before the tourists arrive en masse. In fact, the men and women of NMCB 40 have been doing that for a few weeks now. As part of a continuing community relations effort between the Naval Station and the city of Rota, its residents and tourists alike can observe heavy construction equipment in active roles on Spain's sandy shores.

However, if you happened to be on the beach two weeks ago, you may have noticed an individual in a white helmet driving a scraper that wasn't a Seabee. "I picked sand up from the waterline and moved it further up the beach," said Capt. Richard R. Noble, commanding officer, U.S. Naval Station, Rota. "I did about a dozen passes," he added with a smile.

Noble, a former A-6 pilot, who maintains his flight qualification on a C-12, had previously asked and received permission from NMCB 133 to operate an excavator and a bulldozer. "Then FORTY came along and I asked if I could drive a scraper," he said. "It's kind of like driving an A-6 or a C-12, or operating a heavy piece of machinery. You move controls, that move hydraulic actuators, which move control surfaces."

However, this was not the San Diego native's first experience with heavy equipment. "I drove a bulldozer without permission in college," said Noble. "A buddy of mine and I took a bulldozer for a ride for about 10 feet, and then the foreman caught us. We got in trouble, taken to jail and were later released after discussing it with the construction company owner. That was my first experience of driving heavy equipment, and I liked it."

Conversely, on the Rota beach job site, Noble went through the preliminary requirements before heading for the surf. "EO2 Steven Durette put me through a great training program," he said. "I thank him for the training. He did a great job. That beach project has been and continues to be a good community relations project. It's been going on for a long time. They always ask and we always honor their request."

NMCB 40 has since finished the beaches in Rota and are currently working on the beaches at Chipiona. This project will take them well into the month of June.

TOP: NMCB 40 Seabees and Capt. Noble move hundreds of tons of sand on the beaches of Rota. Left: The captain receives technical advice from EO2 Steven Durette. The eight-week-long project gives the Seabees an opportunity to gain valuable earth-moving training on a massive scale. Most NMCB projects are on a much smaller scale than the current sand reclamation project. Seabees find it rewarding to make a difference in the community and leave something behind said, Capt. Thomas Bongiovi.

Fighting FORTY is in the midst of a seven-month deployment and scheduled to return to homeport in Port Hueneme, California in September.

Naval Station has used the Virkon solution on three C-130's, and the station's C-12s. However, with the Virkon solution's corrosive effects, equipment onboard the aircraft, along with the landing gear, were at risk of being damaged from the solution, Black said. In response to the worries of airplane damage from Virkon, the Spanish Ministry of Defense gave the OK to the U.S. to change from using the virkon chemical solution to using four percent sodium carbonate and 0.1 percent sodium silicate. Black added the new solution should be the answer to preventing FMD, while also causing less aircraft damage.

With the new chemical solution now being used, the answer to the question of where, and how to locate the aircraft already sprayed with Virkon becomes a consideration. Airplane parts and equipment that were sprayed with the Virkon solution before the change are at risk to suffer damage. These airplanes and parts, said Black, are already being closely monitored. "The parts and planes sprayed with Virkon are being tracked through a world-wide database in order to keep close observation on their status."

The change in chemical solutions will only affect Rota Naval Base and Moron Air Base. There will be no changes to the chemical use at civilian airports on Spanish bases.

"Sometimes environmental work isn't always gratifying," said Riordan. "This award validates all the hard work the staff here has put into the program."

The environmental division plans to continue their 'holistic approach' to environmental management, and Riordan hopes their work will be recognized again next year.

"We'll just continue doing the things we've been doing well, identify our new top priorities, and keep working with everyone," he said. "We hope to keep this streak going."

The High Voltage Line Crew has begun washing the high voltage distribution system in the housing area. The Public Works line crew uses "water only" to clean the lines and the spray is not harmful to anything it may come in contact with.

"We're getting a very good response from the commands and the kids," said Valencia Moore, personnel management specialist, HRO.

The program – tentatively scheduled to run eight weeks based on funding and the number of participants – will run from June 25 – Aug. 17. It is open to students, ages 14 – 23, whether dependent spouses or dependent children, said Moore.

"The important thing about the program is that it gives them a sense of responsibility," she said. "It's not like an allowance where you get it whether you do the work or not."

Students who meet the May 25 application deadline will be eligible to work for the full summer term. Subsequent application deadlines are set for every second Friday following the May 25 deadline, until July 31.

"The goal is to employ as many dependent youth as possible," said Moore, "and give them meaningful employment over the summer months."

Applications are currently available at the DGF High School office and HRO. For information, call ext. 2677.

Crouching Tiger (PG-13: for martial arts violence) Romance; Michelle Yeoh (120 min). Crouching Tiger starts with the revenge plot common in the wuxia stories that director, Ang Lee, loved as a child, then adds a feminist twist. The sword is stolen by a masked female, setting in motion events that test the bonds of family, love, duty, and sisterhood.

Efficacious Prayer To The Holy Ghost: O Holy Ghost! Omnipotent Spirit of God above, take me as Thy disciple; Guide me, illuminate me and Sanctify me; Bind my hands that I may not do evil; Cover my eyes that I may not see it; Sanctify my heart that evil may not rest within me. Be Thou my God! Be Thou my guide! Wherever Thou leadest me I will go, Whatsoever Thou forbidest me, I will renounce, and whatsoever Thou commandest in Thy Strength I will do. Amen Recite 7 Glory Be's in honor of the Holy Ghost. Amen Jess López.

No air conditioning policy remains in effect. To keep cool, remember to crack open windows and doors to create cross drafts because air movement alone provides a significant cooling effect. Window stops will be provided and installed by PWD shops. Expect to see installation team immediately. For questions or concerns, contact your Client Service Representative.

DGF Soccer team goes undefeated

Scot Wilson
DGF High School

It's official: DGF High School's Soccer team is the league champion. In a stunning season, DGF went 8-0-1, tying just one game to NAVSTA, but still, an undefeated season.

DGF's final game was against the Marines who, if you can remember last year, got in a fight with DGF, and therefore, the atmosphere at the beginning of the game was less than friendly... DGF got the one up on the Marines early, but were far from obvious winners. The Marines threatened several times, but could not seem to get things together in the front. The game slowly unraveled for the Marines as they began to get frustrated with their inability to find the back of the net. DGF picked up a few more goals and then it was everything the Marines could do to avoid a goalfest. The final score was 5-0.

The DGF squad is in very good form, and they are currently fielding a better team than they have for the past couple of seasons. Coming of this defeatless (not a real word, in case you're curious) season, they are getting ready to go off to the European Tournament in Holland where they expect to do really well. They will be leaving May 22, and will be returning on Memorial Day Sunday. DGF's Lady Admiral's Softball squad is also heading off on their quest at about the same time. They are looking to defend their title, and should do fantastically.

Many important things are happening right now in Spanish Football. The league has entered its last few weeks of seasonal play, and it is really crunch time for some of the big clubs. Real Madrid, who was so impressive through the doldrums of the season, now appears to be losing steam. They lost to the historic, yet surprisingly weak, team of Bayern Munich and are therefore out of the Champion's League. They are also not performing as well as they should in the Spanish League, only mustering a tie against Espanyol. But, there is some good news for Spanish Football. And that news is that Alaves is going to the finals of the UEFA Cup in Germany. They will be facing off against Liverpool.

Rota Ruckers Basketball Classic

Teams from around the base came together this past weekend at Camp Mitchell for the first Rota Ruckers Basketball Classic. More than 60 spectators were present at the event, which also included a live disc jockey, refreshments, and a three-point shooting contest. "It's good to be able to produce an event that everyone can participate in. Everything went well, it was safe, and everybody had fun," said Mike Hyacinthe, coordinator of the basketball tournament. Though the tournament included teams gathered from the base, NMCB-40 ended up the victors, with the Seabees winning the three-point contest, most valuable player award, and with their basketball team known as "Rock-a-Fella" winning the tournament championship.

Navy fitness has come a long way

Commentary
Rota Coastline

While researching the information for the 'Look Back' section, I came across CO questions and answers from 1981. One question was, "We are all out of shape is there a possibility of having a fitness program on base?" The COs answer, "If there is enough interest, we will look into starting a program."

When I reported to my first ship in 1983, many Sailors lit cigarettes on their way out of the rack. I remember doing the annual PRT, but I don't think it mattered if you passed or not. It wasn't noted on evals, there was no remedial program, and if you blew it off, nothing happened. On the chow line every vegetable was seasoned with bacon and boiled to mush. The gym for a carrier crew of nearly 6,000 when deployed, had one universal weight lifting machine, a handful of old fashioned stationary bicycles (half were usually broken), and an assortment of mixed and matched free weights.

Over the past 18 years, the Navy's attitude toward fitness has drastically changed and the Navy is actually taking away excuses for not being fit.

I recently found out that the Gym now has fitness coordinators that create personalized training programs based on your schedule, how much exercising you want to do, and what you need to work on. They also provide body composition testing, Nutrilus orientation, and nutritional guidance. When the Wellness Center is completed, there will be an audio-visual library at the Gym covering a wide range of fitness topics.

Over the years, MWR has taken numerous hits to their budget, but somehow the gym has evolved into what it is today. I overheard two ARG Marines talking while sitting in the sauna. They were grumbling about 'why doesn't the Marine Corps spend this kind of money at Camp Lejeune.' The more I think about it, the more I feel like an idiot for not taking advantage of the investment the Navy has made for my benefit.

Anyway, the whole point of this commentary is to kick off the new Coastline "Fit" feature. In the interest of providing the community with wide-ranging local, and general health and fitness information, with help from the Wellness Center, Naval Hospital Health Promotions, and from anyone else interested.

If you would like to contribute or suggest a fitness or wellness topic please email us at coastline@navsta.rota.navy.mil.
